RAYMOND RECORDER

No. 19 Vol. 2 Thursday, August 9, 1951

THE RAYMOND LION

A group of 14 men, including several Lions, were clustered around the shiny-topped desk of Ohio Governor Frank J. Lausche. Seated at the desk with pen in hand the Governor prepared to sign into law a bill which had recently passed the legislature.

It was no ordinary bill. The fact that a group of senators and representatives were on hand to witness the informal signature ceremony stamped it as something apart from the normal run of legislation.

As the hands of the clock pointed to 10.20 a. m., Governor Lausche penned his name across the bottom of the document, making history for himself and Ohio with his approval of the Lions sponsored white cane law. Thus on May 2, 1951, Ohio became the 42nd State to give statutory protection to the blind in its traffic safety code.

Earlier in the spring Tennessee, North Dakota and West Virginia became the 39th, 40th, and 41st States to adopt laws which gave legal recognition to the white cane as a symbol of protection for the blind. And it was largely through the efforts of individual Lions and Lions Clubs that passage of these three bills were effected.

A large measure of the success for white cane legislation in North Dakota goes to District 5-N Governor Francis C. Swanke who drafted the bill, presented it to the legislative research committee, and then pushed it through the North Dakota senate and house of representatives.

Governor Okey L. Pateson, former president of the Mount Hope, W. Va. Lions Club extended his support of the white cane measure even so far as to have it introduced as an administration-sponsored bill. Groundwork for passage included a resolution favoring the bill passed by the 1950 state convention of Lions Clubs at Wheeling. At that time every Lions Club in West Virginia was asked to seek its passage. Because of the support of its former president, Governor Pateson, the Mount Hope club feels especially proud of its role in the enactment of the law. Now Lions of West Virginia are embarking upon another project of even greater magnitude. They hope to furnish white canes to the blind of every community in which Lions Clubs are located.

Since the white-cane-for-the-blind idea first came to the attention of the public in 1930 the swelling tide of legal recognition of the Lions sponsored symbol has spread not only throughout the United States but has also found its way into the Statute books of Hawaii and four Canadian provinces, British Columbia, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Ontario. And in most major cities and many smaller towns there now exists ordinances governing the use and recognition of white canes.

Now, as nearly as can be determined only six states—Arizona, Louisiana, New York, New Mexico, Pennsylvania and Texas—do not have white cane laws—to protect the blind in traffic.

In Peoria, Ill. around Christmas time in 1930, the white cane idea was initiated through the efforts of Geo. N. Bonham, president of the Peoria Lions Club and the first white canes were presented to the blind of that city.

Other Illinois Lions Clubs followed Peoria's example and the movement became state-wide. Then at the 1931 Lions International convention in Toronto, the white cane idea was adopted and soon gained world wide recognition. Since then thousands of canes have been given to blind people throughout the world.

Longer than the average walking stick, the cane is a brilliant white

Dan Holladay Hospitalized

His many friends will be glad to learn that Dan Holladay's condition is progressing favorably after his accident last Friday evening when he had the misfortune to slip on a freshly waxed floor at his office. Bones in his amputated leg were broken and he was taken to the St. Michaels Hospital in Lethbridge and put under the care of Dr. Albert. An operation was performed on his leg on Tuesday and the bones set.

It has been estimated that he will be in the hospital for about three weeks and visitors will be welcome.

We join with the community in extending a special wish for your speedy and complete recovery Dan.

The Primaries Present The Programs

Myrtle Bacon offered the opening prayer Sunday evening at the First Ward Primary Service, after which Olive Fisher welcomed the congregation. A talk on the life of Aurelia Rogers was given by Elizabeth Kiddle and after a piano duet by Connie Fisher and Marilyn Bacon, Rosland Bohme gave a reading as well as Donald Sudo. Jim Fisher, Richard and David Kiddle and Doug Herche sang the Primary Color Song followed by a Reading by Nellie Meldrum. The Primary Teachers then sang "The Call" after which a Reading was given by John Lybbert and a Trio, Elizabeth Kiddle, Jane Brewerton and Francis Stevenson sang "My Testimony". The Life of Louis B. Felt was told by Lulu Bakkon and The Life of Mary Anderson by Bessie Lybbert after which Wylene Fisher rendered an organ solo. Murray Holt, the advisor to the Primary gave a short talk after the Choral Reading by Roslund, Donald, Nellie and John. After a few closing remarks by Bishop Hicken, The Primary Teachers sang "The Call of Love" and Annie Ash offered the closing prayer.

After the opening prayer by Mrs. Innes in the Second Ward the older Primary Classes gave choral readings with musical numbers by the teachers in between each one. Mrs. Sally Hippard gave a musical reading, a trio, Mesdames Muriel Terry, Laura Watson and Marie Strong presented a number and the teachers as a group sang a chorus.

A talk was given by President, Muriel Terry followed by Elaine Johnson and Jackie Thompson who spoke on their class work. Marie Strong and Margaret Bridge then played an organ and piano duet after which Loya Heggie, June McBride, and Myrtle Jensen reported on their class work.

A handcraft display of the children's work was enjoyed by the parents after the meeting.

Mrs. Robert Heggie conducted the Primary Program in the Third Ward which commenced with Choral Readings by the older classes interspersed with choruses by the Primary Teachers. This was followed by talks by Mae Jacques, Bonnie Romeril and Doris Court on their respective Class Objectives. A few words were also said by the president, Madge Fairbanks and Bishop Dahl as well as Paul Fairbanks.

Gertie Fairbanks conducted the program in the Fourth Ward with the President, Jennie Vance offering the opening prayer. Martha Woolley gave a review of the class work in the Trail Builder Class after they sang one of their songs. Margaret Stone Anita and Ladine McBride sang a Trio followed by a few remarks from Bishop Snow. The Homebuilders then sang a class song followed by a talk by Roxie Hamilton. Barbara Tolles-trup offered the closing prayer.

Mrs. James S. Anderson is a patient in the local hospital.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to all those who were so kind and thoughtful to us during our recent bereavement.

The Meldrum Family

Eighteen Junior Gleaners of the Fourth Ward had a wonderful time in Waterton on Saturday, enjoying hiking, sightseeing, and picnicking climaxed by their attendance at the dance that evening.

This trip was made possible by Hanna Robinson, Beth Galbraith (their Gleaner Leader) Bruce Galbraith and Ted Meeks who drove them there.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Ira McBride and Mrs. Minnie Wilde left on Tuesday morning for Idaho Falls and points in Utah. While away on their fortnight vacation they will attend a Peterson re-union in Ogden.

Miss Mary Henry of Castlegar, B.C., is now visiting at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Alice Court.

Leadership Week A Big Success

A Friday evening party in the Stake House Recreation Hall closed a very successful week of Leadership training. It is hoped by Stake Officials here that this experiment now having passed its second year, may become a permanent summer educational project, with the possibility of being extended into a six week course. The benefits accruing to Auxiliary organization teachers, professional school teachers, prospective missionaries and lay church members would be unlimited. Under present conditions such educational advantages come only to the few, but could the courses be extended to the full six weeks with credits given for successful participation, great numbers of people could avail themselves of such educational opportunities. It is felt by some, that the future holds great promise in this field.

It is interesting to note that Dr. Sidney B. Sperry drew 1279 people to hear his ten lectures on Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants and Pearl of Great Price. This would seem to be ample proof that people are interested in religious topics when properly presented. The figures also show that here in Raymond, only one adult in nine took advantage of this splendid opportunity.

The Music Department was conducted especially for conductors and organists by Newell B. Weight and 325 class appearances were registered for 11 lectures. The students were most enthusiastic with the high quality of instruction received.

J. Ira Young gave the instruction in Teacher Training and the popularity of his classes was evidenced by the fact that 699 class appearances were registered for 11 lectures. All teachers who failed to take this course missed a rare opportunity.

A very enjoyable family get together was held at the Heber Allan home on Sunday. This was the first time in six years that they have had the entire family with them. Mrs. Louise Kenney of Tulsa and Marian Allen of Ogden were there from the U. S. and Doug from Calgary. They were very happy that Mrs. Allan was able to sit up with them on this occasion.

Miss Mimi Czap now of Lethbridge was also present.

The Wednesday Night Club met last week at the home of Mrs. Robert Heggie with Rook being the highlight of the evening. Guests of honor Anne Turner and Marie Witbeck took the prizes, First and Consolation respectively.

A lovely lunch was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Genler Nielson and two sons returned home on Monday after a pleasant stay in Magrath at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tanner the past two weeks.

I REMEMBER

Clara Rolfsen

In the year 1901 I came to Canada with my parents as a young girl with four other families. We landed at Sterling November 8th in the afternoon of that day, where we stayed at a small hotel for awhile. The next morning we found that it had snowed a little bit.

I remember that water was scarce and we all had to wash in the same water. That was our first introduction to Canada.

Some young people were going to the first dance held in Raymond and I was asked if I would care to go with them. So we all piled into a Bob sled; there wasn't very much snow but with the tall grass we slipped along quite nicely and had a lot of fun.

We finally arrived at the dance which was held upstairs in the Mercantile Store. Thomas Kittle and his daughter Lillie furnished the music with their little organ and 'fiddle'. We danced on the rough board floor until we wore the sole off our shoes. The place was lighted up with kerosene lamps.

There were only six young girls in Raymond until the next June, so it took all the married people to help have the dances. There were plenty of men and boys so we were all Belle's of the Ball. We could have a date at any time but as there was nothing else to do we would go out for walks and gather mushrooms which were found all over. The grass was knee high to a tall Indian all over the prairies.

The first Stampede and ball game was held in the centre of town. One Sunday when a ball game was going on the Red Coats came and stopped it.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Anderson are at their ranch South-west of Cardston for the haying season. Mel Richardson is also there working with Mr. Anderson.

Red Cross Water Safety Men to Visit Here

Red Cross swimming and water safety men are now touring the Province, examining the candidates who have been receiving swimming and water safety knowledge from their local instructors.

Where possible, demonstrations for parents and other interested persons will be given in addition to the examinations. Swimming and water safety movies will also be shown in centers where they have not been screened previously.

Mr. R. C. Bishop, Red Cross director of swimming and water safety for Alberta Division will be at Raymond at 10 a.m. on August 16th and Magrath at 2:30.

The public is invited.

Enid Dahl, who is training as a nurse in Edmonton, is spending her holidays here at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dahl.

Mrs. John T. Smellie Passes in Idaho

Word has been received here of the passing Thursday night of Mrs. John T. Smellie at the home of her daughter Mrs. Ruth Ricks at Rexford Idaho.

Mrs. Irene Redd, Mrs. Joe Strong, Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Jensen, Mrs. Walter Webster and Mrs. Marvan Torrie plan to leave Saturday morning for Rexford for the funeral which will be held on Monday.

The late Mrs. Smellie was at one time a resident of Raymond.

David Meldrum, Early Pioneer Laid To Rest

Seventy-seven years after he was born in Provo, Utah David Meldrum received last rites at funeral services held in the Second Ward Chapel on Tuesday, August 7th, with Bishop Ruton Dahl conducting.

The choir was conducted by Mrs. Ruth Salmon with Mrs. Emma Dahl at the organ.

The services were commenced by the choir's rendition of "O My Father" after which L. D. King offered the opening prayer. A ladies chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Salmon sang "Peace I Leave With You" and M. T. King spoke highly of Mr. Meldrum's life and his activities and character. Joseph McLeans song was followed by a talk by Pres. Walker who spoke highly of the deceased, that his life had been spent in doing good. Evelyn Melchin sang a beautiful solo and Bishop Dahl offered words of comfort to the many relatives and friends attending the service. "Before Thee Lord Lord I Bow My Head" was the closing song after which Clarence Allred pronounced the benediction.

The many floral tributes were carried by Mr. Meldrum's grandchildren. The pallbearers were members of the High Priest Quorum of which Mr. Meldrum had been a member. D. A. Bennett, Clarence Smith, Andrew Walton, Charles Eveson, Harold Stevens and Parley Litchfield. The graveside prayer at Temple Hill Cemetery was offered by D. A. Bennett.

Christensen Bros. were in charge.

Republished from the Canadian Veteran of 1940
and still in effect

This publication adheres to what may perhaps be considered an old fashioned belief—that is, that headlines are meant to convey a truthful summary of the story which follows them. It does not believe that "scares headlines" designed only for the purpose of attracting street-corner sales and often distorting the actual facts have any place in the makeup of a reputable Canadian publication. It cannot agree with the policy of "slush" journals, living on filth and scandal which capitalize incidents and headline them for the sake of attracting cheap and nasty attention.

Yet there is one headline, brimming with scandal, which The Canadian Veteran will publish, if and when the occasion demands. That line will be published when, for the first time, it is proved that the Red Cross has officially sold, for its own benefit, and in a deceitful manner, any of that large supply of stores and materials given to it for the use of those whom it exists to serve.

Unfortunately the poisoned arrows of rumour are again being shot into the air. Not once, but on a number of occasions in recent months, we have been told that the Red Cross is selling socks, etc, which have been given to it to be distributed to men on service. Invariably, as in the years past, we have endeavoured to trace the rumours to their source—to establish the truth of the story. Invariably again, we have failed.

Pinned down, the narrator of such tales every time lead his story back through a winding maze of "I heard" or something of that sort. Yes, he will tell you, his wife met a woman who had a cousin whose brother-in-law's aunt heard someone say that somebody else's boy Bill, etc., etc., ad nauseam. Never, in all our investigations, have we been able to find a glimmer of truth in the rambling of this character—and that goes for the Great War, when similar stories were prevalent—to.

George Shields, Old-timer Is Given Last Rites

Funeral Services were conducted in the Second Ward Chapel on Wednesday August 8, for George Shields who passed away at the home of his daughter Mrs. John Housley, here Saturday morning.

Bishop Wm. Jensen conducted the Services and also offered words of comfort and consolation to the family. The song "O My Father" was followed by the opening prayer by Wilford Heninger and the hymn "Though Deepening Trials". D. A. Bennett was the first speaker and spoke highly of the life of the deceased. Joe McLean sang "Going Home" and Pres. Walker spoke, comparing the seasons of the year with the life of a man. The closing song was "Nearer My God To Thee" and the benediction was pronounced by Bishop J. O. Hicken.

The music was directed by Gen Hawkins with Emma Dahl at the organ.

Interment was in the Temple Hill Cemetery with Pres. L. L. Palmer offering the graveside prayer. Pallbearers were grandson of Mr. Shields, Ronald, Bill and Delbert Johnson of Barnwell, Louis Shummers and Maurice Brown of Raymond and Hughie Cranford of Lethbridge. The many floral tributes that silently bespoke the esteem in which Mr. Shields was held were carried by his Granddaughters and two great granddaughters.

Christensen Bros. were Funeral Directors.

Mr. Shields, who was 83 years of age, came to Canada in 1899 and settled in Stirling and moved to a farm four miles east of Raymond about five years later where he engaged in farming up until his retirement several years ago. He was predeceased by his wife in September of 1936.

He leaves to mourn his passing three sons, Roy, of Raymond, Carl, of Trail, B.C., and Merlin, of Diamond City, two daughters, Mrs. John (Jen) Housley and Mrs. George (Pearl) Housley of Foremost; three brothers, Wilford of Waterton, William of Diamond City and James of Salt Lake City; two sisters, Mrs. Violet Terry of Lethbridge and Mrs. Janet Wardle of Berley, Idaho; 24 grandchildren and 31 great-grandchildren.

For Parents Only

By Nancy Cleaver
 Children and Money

Money is important in a child's world as well as an adult's. How does your child get the money he wants? By asking for every cent at the time? From an allowance? From gifts from relatives? By earning it? Another vital question which you, as parents, should consider is—How does your child think of money. His ideas are bound to be colored to a great extent by your own attitude to it.

In your home, do mother and father work together as partners in planning the family budget? Are you "good managers"? Do you spend too freely? Are you on the miserly side? Do you act as if money is the most important thing in life, which can buy everything you want? Or do you look on money as a tool to be used wisely in building a good life?

Parents keep coins out of a baby's reach so he won't put a copper in his mouth. The danger of choking is too great. Money fascinates a small child. He likes to handle it, put it in little piles, pretend to count! It is fun to "play store" with real money. But being a child, he is apt to hide it in a "safe" place and forget where he put it, or lose it altogether.

Children soon learn that grownups attach special importance to money. Little Margaret finds her Mother's purse on the bureau one day and takes the compact out to play with it. Mother is amused at the powder on her chin. The next day Margaret is delighted to find coppers to play with loose in Mother's purse. The child is surprised when mother is annoyed and scolds her for touching her money!

Mother and Dad should not leave purses or change lying around the house. A small child, with no real idea of "stealing" may be used by a neighbour's child to take this money out to him. Then they both can go on a spending spree, with the younger child warned not to "tell."

Children realize at an early age that money gives them the power to purchase candy or ice cream or other desirable treats.

Children learn to handle money through their own experiences. That is why an allowance, begun about the time a child starts to school, is so important. Even if it must be a small amount, five or six cents a week, Junior should receive a definite sum at a certain time on a set day. He can do as he likes with this money. His allowance is not taken away as a punishment. Nor is he forced to set aside part of his money as savings.

When children are given an allowance they do not have to whine or bargain for spare cash. Parents should not pay money as a reward for good behaviour or high marks. Neither should a child be paid for home chores. These are part of the child's contribution to the family welfare. But payment can be made for extra tasks quite apart from regular home duties.

It is unreasonable to ask a child to save for technical training or a college education. A child discovers that he must deny himself the pleasure of buying one thing if he wants to save and have the fun of purchasing a different object.

Impatience is a youthful characteristic, and saving has to be for a goal which can be reached before too long. The total amount of savings for a young child should be small. The lesson of discipline is lost if the child "borrows" the additional sum he needs from an indulgent parent. "Pay before going on to Bow Island to visit as you go" is a sound slogan.

with a six inch red tip. Blind persons employ the stick more as a guide than support for walking. A recent innovation in the white cane idea protects the sightless at night. The new "Lectro Cane" complete with batteries and bulbs casts a brilliant red and white glow which identifies the pedestrian in traffic as blind. This invention originated in the San Jose California Lions club's Welfare foundation which manufactures and distributes the lighted cane to blind all over the world.

Wee Wisdom

Get The Man Right

An oft-used illustration in speeches these days has been quoted for The Lion by Int. Couns. H. A. Reeves; and we pass it on to our readers that they might absorb its truth and use it too:

"I used a little story that I attributed to my little boy on a couple of occasions recently. I was reviewing the chaotic conditions of our world in these hectic days and mentioned that that I was trying to read the funny paper one Sunday morning, a diversion in which I can become deeply engrossed.

"My little boy kept pestering me to read this and read that, etc. so I picked up the magazine section and finding a spread map of the world, I took it and tore the paper into a hundred or more pieces and told him to put it back together as if it were a jigsaw puzzle.

"In less than half the time that I thought it would take he was back showing me that he had put it back together. I was amazed and asked how he could put a map of the world back together so quickly. He explained that he had noticed a picture of a man on the reverse side of the paper and then remarked:

"If you can get the man right, then you can get the world right, Daddy!"

Leadership Week

It would seem that for an agricultural community such as Raymond is, farmers in general must take pride in their right to learn by the long and costly rule of experience. Dr. Ray B. Farnsworth claimed that no civilization in history had long endured without a system of irrigation. When one views the patches of waste alkali land in this district it would seem time for us to smarten up or face the possibility of having to move from these acres. Dr. Farnsworth's eleven lectures were attended by 346 class attendances. The topics treated were vital to every farmer.

It was notable and encouraging to see that 552 class attendances heard Glen Turner in nine lectures on Art and its various phases. These classes drew people from all of the three Stakes and from comments heard, Mr. Turner has become a part of the cultural life of these communities.

Stan Watts was brought in to show us how to play Basketball and it was somewhat of a disappointment that only 232 class attendances were registered. The coaches who received instruction were loud in their praise of the help received.

A grand total of 3433 class attendances were registered for the five days of instruction which was satisfactory to all concerned. It is felt that the Leadership school will grow in popularity to the point where every auxiliary organization teacher will take the courses. The benefit coming from such participation would be inestimable.

Avoid Harvest Losses

To grow a first class grain crop and then to reduce its quality, and hence its value, through the use of faulty harvesting and threshing methods, just doesn't make good sense. Grain should be harvested carefully to avoid market discounts.

Combine-Harvest Problems. The introduction of the combine has meant a substantial decrease in harvesting costs. Nevertheless, combine-harvest is not without its problems. One of the most important of these is the tendency for combine operators to "beat the gun" and start harvesting operations before the grain has reached full maturity, or is dry enough. It is a well established fact that the cutting of grain before it is entirely ripe means a sacrifice of yield with no advantage as to quality. One important thing to remember at harvest time is that an excess of either inside or outside moisture is potentially damaging to grain quality.

Prevent Losses. Improper threshing can be very damaging to the quality of grain crops, particularly malting barley. In harvesting and threshing, therefore, every effort should be made to eliminate mechanical injury to the kernels (splitting of wheat, peeling and breaking of barley, and cracking of flax seed). Such damage can be largely prevented if farmers and combine operators will take the time and the care to adjust their combines or threshing machines for quality threshing. Slow cylinder speeds and proper adjustment of cylinder, concaves, sieves and wind will reduce the amount of damaged kernels. Do not run the cylinder of your combine or threshing machine faster than is necessary to get the grain out of the heads.

Losses due to improper harvesting and threshing represent not only a land investment loss, but also a loss of man and machine power. In these days of high production costs, no farmer can afford losses of this kind. Care in harvesting will help any western farmer to reap the highest possible returns for his 1951 grain crop.

Mr. and Mrs. Pernaed of Magna, Utah, and their daughter and son-in-law, are guests this week at the home of Mrs. Mary E. Wall. Mrs. Wall and her sister Mrs. Pernaed have not seen each other for thirty-five years. On Tuesday Mrs. Wall and Eldon accompanied them to Taber where they visited other members of the family.

Miss Judy Vold and her brother Kenneth Vold are visiting in Moose Jaw at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Stinton.

If you've ever gone on a honeymoon or your plans for the future includes one you might be interested in knowing just what started the whole thing.

Centuries ago when a man chose a bride he very often had to steal her and cart her off to parts unknown. Whether or not she was a willing victim made no difference; he took her and hid her until her vengeful kinsmen grew weary of the search and let the whole thing drop. The custom of "giving the bride away" is another relic of another age the era when a bride was customarily purchased from her parents. From the same time comes the wedding veil, reminiscent of the day when a maiden appeared at her wedding completely veiled from head to toe.

Then there's the best man. He was more than just an amiable pal with a handy vest pocket for a wedding ring in the original version. In fact he was almost indispensable for he backed up the groom when he went to steal the bride, armed to the teeth in case they should encounter a father or brother with different ideas.

So there we have it. We need not look too far for the "something old" that is traditional for the bride. Its there in almost every phase of the wedding.

David Meldrum

Mr. Meldrum came to this country in 1902 in answer to a call from his Church and was the engineer during the time of the first factory. When his health would no longer permit him to work inside he took up farming.

He was very active in Church work having filled a two-year mission in Eastern Canada and served as Secretary of the Third Ward High Priests Quorum for many years. After retiring from his farm he spent three years as caretaker of the Second Ward Chapel.

For the past few years Mr. Meldrum had spent part of each year visiting with members of his family away from Raymond. It was while he was visiting a daughter in Winnipeg that he was stricken with the lung congestion that caused his death.

He was predeceased by his wife fourteen years ago and leaves to mourn, six daughters, Mrs. Charles (Velma) Tillack and Mrs. Clifford (Enid) Dahl of Raymond, Mrs. Paul (Ruth) Taylor of Magrath, Mrs. T. C. (Delvior) McBeath of Winnipeg, Mrs. Kenneth (Lucille) Hatch of Randolph Utah, Mrs. Glen (Ina) Corbett of Great Falls, Montana, and one son, Ralph, of Raymond. Each of his daughters and their husbands, and his son and daughter-in-law were in attendance at the funeral as well as 27 of his 31 grandchildren.

He is also survived by four brothers, Parley and Wilford of Raymond, Bryan of Magrath and Alvin of Monroe, Utah and two sisters, Mrs. Geo. Heggie of Raymond and Mrs. Tom Simmonson of Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Rolfson and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kenney attended the ball game between Lethbridge and Welling at Lethbridge Monday evening.

A Farm Storage Tank Makes Dollars and Sense

Like many other sound investments, a farm storage tank more than pays for itself in dollars. Here is why—it makes sense!

1. Helps Prevent 75% of Fuel Troubles—Proper storage and handling is most important. For cleaner fuel, raise the nozzle end of the storage tank to allow any sediment to accumulate at the lower end where it can be removed.
2. Prevents Waste—Fuel is easily spilled or left in the bottom of a barrel whether you use a pail or a pump. With a storage tank gravity hose there is little or no waste.
3. Lessens Fire Hazards—Gasoline in a farm building creates a serious fire hazard. A storage tank located some distance from farm buildings complies with fire insurance regulations.
4. Convenient and Time Saving—Fill your engine fuel tank with a gravity hose. In busy seasons your fuel is there when you need it. There is little deterioration in quality during the winter or between busy seasons if your tank is full.

$100 For a Headline

We do not believe that the Red Cross is a 100 per cent perfect organization. Neither is any other concern which is subject to the frailties of human nature, evidenced through those who work for it. Every bank—every church—every wholesale firm—every society—has its Judas or its slacker.

But we do believe that for the many years of its existence the Red Cross has, as a society, administered its affair honestly and in the highest sense of trusteeship. We believe that the world without it would be a much worse place than it is today. We believe that the sum total of its accomplishments, in peace, and war, constitutes one of the greatest contributions to human welfare that the world has ever known.

Our faith may be shattered—but on the production of definite and incontrovertible proof that the Red Cross, as an organization, is guilty of malfeasance, that it has sold, as a commercial organization, the goods entrusted to it in order that those who need might be cared for—we will pay the man or woman who brings the original story to us the sum of one hundred dollars. Then, going back to the subject of headlines, we will publish the story with a front-page headline that will tell the world of the destruction of a great principle.

In other words, our present answer to anonymous letters, to malicious recitals, is, "Put up or shut up."

And to those who are guilty of spreading false and scurrilous rumour, we say this: That they are just as guilty of sabotage, of destruction of the national morale and faith as any "Fifth Columnist." Well-meaning as they may be, they are assisting the enemy. They are harming their own country—and stabbing in the back those who depend upon the Red Cross for assistance when it is vitally needed.

Last week the Psychology Club met at the home of Mrs. Ace Scoville to hear Miss Buchnell, matron of the Municipal Hospital give an interesting and informative talk on Hospital Auxiliaries.

The Club has taken over the job of doing the sewing and patching for the local hospital for the next year. A very commendable project.

Bertha Stone and family and Margaret Hill and family spent a few days in Waterton last week, being joined by their husbands on Saturday for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. George Turner and family attended a Turner Reunion at Waterton Lakes Park on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ab Hague have as their guest Mrs. Hague's mother, Mrs. Emily Stewart of Cardston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Wilde, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Schneider and Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Schneider and families enjoyed a wonderful vacation in Yellowstone Park last week. The Wilde's continued their trip on to the West with the Schneiders returning home earlier in the week.
